

Convivium – Sweet Endings The Bring Your Own Dessert Version (wine selection optional)

The Sweet Endings version of the game is for the Convivium enthusiasts that are looking for a fun and easy way to conclude an evening with friends or family. This bring your own dessert version is exciting because the finish line positions determine the selection order for the available desserts.

How it works!

Each player is responsible for bringing 1 generous dessert portion. (Slice of pie, cake, brownie, etc.)

Round 3 of the game is played (Round 3 is the traditional Convivium dessert round which offers an extended playing time for guests to enjoy each others company)

Because there is no cooking required, the finish line positions are altered slightly to incorporate the dessert selection process as follows:

- The individual or team that selects the Winner Position receives the first dessert selection but is also responsible for cleaning the dishes following the game.
Is the first selection worth the dishwashing duty?
- The individual or team that selects the Wait Staff Position receives the second dessert selection and is responsible for serving the dessert and coffee following the game.
- The individual or team that selects the Beverage Manager Position receives the third dessert selection but is also responsible for making the coffee or desired after dinner drink.
- The individual or team that selects the Dessert Chef Position receives the final dessert selection but is not responsible for any other culinary responsibilities.

For the Host:

These instructions are offered to compliment the original Convivium dinner party board game. The Host should refer to original game instructions and host guide prior to beginning play. The host may also wish to consider a wine selection for this sweet endings version.

No additional finish line cards are required.
